To Whom It May Concern:

I recently engaged Peter Hinshaw with RMH Telecom Consultants to review our telecommunications expenditures. They provided us with a professional review of our current local, long distance, cellular and data services as well as reviewing our current contracts and price points. This review determined that our telecommunications services were closed to being optimized, but identified several hundred dollars in savings on our long distance and local service.

I would recommend Mr. Hinshaw and RMH Telecom Consultants to any institution or company that is interested in ways to decrease their expenses or in need of an independent review of their telecommunications spending. If you have any questions about their services, please feel free to contact me.

Kevin Wisch
