

To whom it may concern:

I recently engaged Mr. Jeff Davis with RMH Telecom Consultants to review our telecommunications expenditures. They provided a professional review of our current local, long distance, cellular and data services, as well as reviewing current contracts and price points. Mr. Davis kept me informed throughout the entire process and their involvement has helped facilitate a comprehensive understanding of my current, as well as future telecommunications needs. Mr. Davis determined that our local and long distance were optimized and found over 40% in savings on our cell phone cost.

I would recommend Mr. Davis and RMH Telecom Consultants to any institution or company that is looking for ways to decrease their expenses and in need of an independent review of their telecommunications. If you have any questions about their services, please feel free to contact me.
